Death Accounts from Philadelphia Congregational Records.

The following pages contain notations taken from the many comments made in the margins of the first congregational session records of Philadelphia Church. These notations are in a variety of hands and were probably made by the clerk of the congregation at the time death took place. In the earliest pages laid out by the Rev. Angus Johnson, a separate column for death of members is provided. The date given is not always accurate, but represents a contemporary account. In the case, only the year is given in a good many entries. In others, possibly a majority, the month is given as well as the year. In a few, the entire date is given. Some special comments were made in some instances. It is interesting to note that special mention is made of service in the American Revolution. Other members are remembered due to their devotion to the Faith or the church. Only in rare instances are the ages of the dead given.
